

“THE MATRIX OF ALL MATTER - THE MIND OF GOD”

{LESSON NUMBER 4} {4/5/2009}

“ENERGY FOLLOWS ATTENTION”

- IV. From these three brief definitions of thought, emotion and feeling, it becomes clear why it is impossible to “think away” frightening and painful experiences.
- A. Thought is only one component of our experience – the “seeing” in our mind of possible outcomes.
1. However, we must remember, pain is a feeling, the product of our thought fueled by our love or fear of what our mind believes has occurred.
 2. Taking the above into consideration, we now understand that the ancient men of God invite us to heal the memories of our most painful experiences by changing the emotion of the experience itself.
 3. There is an ancient basis for the spiritual law of God that states: “energy follows attention.”
 4. The basis is found in the Gospel Q which describes this concept: “Whoever tries to protect his life will lose it.”
 - a. These words leave no doubt and explain why we sometimes attract into our lives those experiences that we least choose to have.
 - b. When a person prepares and defends themselves against each possibility and every situation where they could lose their lives, the model suggests that they are actually drawing attention to the very experience that they are choosing to avoid.
 - c. In the not wanting they create the condition that allows it to be!
 5. Words (thoughts) are the most powerful things in the universe.
 - a. If we pray defeat and receive it, we are allowing it.
 - b. The truth is, every prayer produces after its kind.
 - c. In Mark 11:24 the Word says: “What things soever you desire, when you pray, believe that you receive them, and you shall have them.”

“THE MATRIX OF ALL MATTER - THE MIND OF GOD”

6. Rather than focusing our attention on what we do not want, a higher choice is found in identifying that which we choose to bring into our lives.
- B. It's important that Christians understand that all prayers receive a yes answer from God, its His law.
1. God does not receive our negative input in a negative way!
 - a. Paul understood this and said so in II Corinthians 1:20: “For as many as are the promises of God, they all find Yes [answer] in Him [Christ]. For this reason we also utter the Amen (so be it) to God through Him [in His Person and by His agency] to the glory of God.”
 - b. Yes, its imperative that we learn to choose the positive and bring it into our lives, and not the negative.
 2. It does not stop here, in II Corinthians 1:21 we are told that God is able to back up His promises to us: “But it is God Who confirms and makes us steadfast and establishes us [in joint fellowship] with you in Christ.....”
 - a. The word “establish” here means to bring about: generate.
 - b. From this we understand that God backs up His promises by establishing us, and in doing so, gives only “Yes” answers.
 3. Because of our physical world where everything is based on our five senses, we as humans find it hard to believe that God can and will bring about (establish) our desires through prayer.
 - a. The answer lies in understanding the laws of energy which are now revealed by quantum physics – namely that, all that exist in creation is energy.
 - b. Its true, there is One source of power (God) and He is the Matrix of all Matter, and all matter is composed of His power (energy).
 4. Even quantum scientist today are calling this One Power of energy “the unified field of energy”.

“THE MATRIX OF ALL MATTER - THE MIND OF GOD”

- a. Everything that exist is energy and the Source of that energy is Father God.
5. We have come to understand that high frequency vibrations of joy, peace and love are in harmony with health, prosperity and the good things we all desire.
6. Therefore, if we pray and find ourselves vibrating these spiritual emotions, we will obtain the abundance of our desires.

“POSITIVE ASSERTIONS”

- C. Today, positive assertions or affirmations have become very popular with followers of some Christian Churches.
 1. The idea behind the reading and speaking of these positive assertions suggest that by affirming the things that we choose to experience in our lives, they will come to pass.
 2. This can become so intense that often people will read and speak them many times a day.
 3. In my own life I have discovered that the less cluttered the positive assertions are, the clearer the result.
 4. Why do people do this? Because the words they affirm often echo a desire for changes in their lives.
 5. Christians often affirm the Word in their positive assertions, but many times people will affirm what they desire.
 - a. They may say things like, “I draw to myself a perfect mate and that mate is manifesting for me now.”
 - b. Or they may say things like, “I draw to myself abundance in finances that manifest in my life now.”
 - c. There are many who carry this affirming to the level of serious discipline.
 6. There is no doubt that positive assertions have opened powerful doors for some people.
 - a. These people feel empowered and responsible for the lives that they are creating.

- b. For these people these positive assertions have worked well.
- 7. For many, however, they have not worked.
 - a. Even after weeks of continual reiterations of creative spoken assertions, with no results, they simply stop.
 - b. Our study of thought, emotion, and feeling may help those people to understand what has happened or failed to happen in their lives.

“WHEN PRAYER DOESN’T WORK”

- D. The information that I am about to teach come from something Gregg Braden said and did.
 - 1. Gregg conducted an informal survey among seminar participants regarding prayer.
 - a. The results of each survey were used to provide a modern-day example of the nature of prayer for that particular audience.
 - b. Greg Braden stated: “I began each survey by simply asking the audience, ‘when you pray, what do you find yourself praying about?’
 - c. Greg was standing in front with a flip chart in which he had recorded the many and varied scenarios that each group described.
 - d. After six months of these informal surveys, four broad categories of prayer emerged from the descriptions: more money, better jobs, better health, and better relationships, in precisely that order.
 - e.

PRAYER FOR	THOUGHT	FEELING	EMOTION
(1) More money	?	?	?
(2) Better Jobs
(3) Better Health
(4) Better Relationships
 - 2. By applying this teaching on this lost mode of prayer and addressing thought, feeling, and emotion we may explore why our prayers work and what happens when they do not.
 - 3. When Braden determined from the audience that their number 1 request in prayer was for more money, he immediately told them that before that could happen they must have the correct perceptions about the money that they already have.

4. He then asked the audiences to describe their thoughts about money when they ask for more in prayer.
 - a. The answers flew back at him throughout the room.
 - b. They were similar in nature, “not enough,” “need more,” and “running out” were common.

{LESSON NUMBER 5} {4/19/2009}

“WISHING - THE POTENTIAL OF THOUGHT WITH NO ENERGY” “HUMANITY AT A CROSSROAD”

- V. Remember, earlier we identified ‘thought’ as our guidance system, the directional program for the energy that we move in our world.
 - A. Without the power to fuel our thought, our prayer may exist indefinitely as a possibility in our mind.
 1. The potential of thought in the absence of the energy to fuel our thought is not prayer, we know as a “wish.”
 2. For our thought to become empowered, we must give it energy.
 3. Perhaps this is the answer to why our prayers sometimes appear to go unanswered.
 4. In the absence of the power to bring our positive assertions and prayers to life, they may exist indefinitely as potential – well intentioned wishes.
 5. It our gift of emotion that empowers the possibility of our wish!
 6. It is important that we realize that we may choose love or fear as the emotion that fuels our thought.
 - a. More often than not, our perceived need for anything is based in fear.
 - b. The simple truth is, anytime we say we “need more,” or that there is “not enough,” or that we are “running out of,” fear is generally the emotion driving such statements.
 7. Greg Braden asked the audience, “When we merge the emotion of fear
